

ESTABROOK

At Huntington Bank, we see something big happening in Cleveland. This is Renee Csuhran. Welcome to Huntington's Best In Business. In 1965, Owen Stiegelmeier found a niche gap in the marketplace: the repair and rebuilding of industrial pumps. So he got to work. Today, the Estabrook Corporation is a leading industrial sales and service company, representing a diverse group of equipment manufacturers. Their hard work and good business sense have transformed a local Cleveland business into a national leader of industrial pumps and process equipment. Through it all, Estabrook has held fast to its heritage, and this second-generation family-owned business is now welcoming third-generation members into the fold. How'd they do it? Commitment. Commitment to exceptional customer service, to engaging their employees, and to supporting their communities. At Huntington, we're big believers in commitment. So when Estabrook decided to bank with us nearly 50 years ago, we committed to stick by them, every step of the way.
